

Charity has lived in Monument since 2009 with her husband and 5 kids. She has spent the last 20 years in the medical sales industry and co-owns a medical practice consulting firm with her husband. Her education is rooted in nursing and psychology, and she is passionate about people, how they think, how they feel and what motivates them.

Charity was initially introduced to TLC as a client, bringing a unique 'inside experience' perspective to the board. She is committed to serving the TLC community and encouraging others who have experienced hard times. When she isn't working, Charity can be found at the gym or enjoying the outdoor beauty of Colorado with her family.