Let your taste buds be tantalized
Meet Chef Brother Luck and his brand
Four by Brother Luck & Lucky Dumpling

With a name like Brother Luck it would be easy to attribute your success to good fortune, but Brother's is a result of hard work, determination, and passion. As a teenager, Brother fell on hard times when his father passed away at the age of 10. After relocating from the San Francisco Bay Area to Arizona, Brother enrolled in a vocational school for high school students to learn the culinary arts. The free food was intriguing enough to keep attending the cooking classes and eventually led him to find a passion in the kitchen that would set him up on an incredible journey inspired by a love for food and service.

"I spent my whole senior year training," Brother admits. "I'd come to school in the morning and train. Then in the afternoon, I went to the Art Institute of Phoenix to train with a master chef. Then I'd work the line at the Hyatt all evening." Brother eventually was awarded with enough scholarships to attend the Art Institute of Phoenix, including one from the college, which named him "Best Teen Chef." His time in college would lead to a diverse career cooking in places around the world including in Japan; Hong Kong; Chicago; New York City and finally in Colorado Springs where he would start Brother Luck Street Eats. There he was honored as "Best Local Chef" by Colorado Springs Independent and "Most Cutting Edge Restaurant" by The Gazette Newspaper.

In 2016, Brother was awarded with an alumni scholarship from The Gohan Society to expand his cooking and travel experiences in Japan, while the Joyce Chen and Helen Chen Foundation allowed Brother to extend his training and exposure into China—opportunities that have shaped both his cooking style and personal perspective. With his determination and the support of his culinary community combined, Brother's path seems to not have been forged based on good fortune alone.

Since his global travels, Chef Brother Luck stepped into the role as entrepreneur opening his signature southwestern concept, Four by Brother Luck; a modern Asian eatery, Lucky Dumpling; and campaigning his mental health awareness slogan #NoLucksGiven. Brother also has an impressive array of television appearances under his belt that include appearing on Food Network as a Chopped finalist and winning his episode of Beat Bobby Flay. Most recently, Brother was a favorite on the Emmy award winning Bravo's Top Chef Season 15 and 16 and cooking his way through the competitors on the digital series Last Chance Kitchen.

Chef Luck enjoys bringing his cuisine all over the globe, introducing new palettes to his crafted flavors and techniques. Wine and food pairings are a delicate specialty that this chef has mastered, as are carefully curated guest experiences from the Caribbean to Europe.
