

Julie moved to the Tri-Lakes Area from Arizona in 2000 to enjoy all the beauty and recreation Colorado offers. Julie comes to Tri-Lakes Cares with a broad background in accounting, finance, and human resources. Working in areas of audit, operations and consulting in governmental, non-profit and for-profit organizations, Julie hopes to continue the success of Tri-Lake Cares' stellar accountability with exceptional customer service, both externally and internally. Her experience with Tri-Lakes Cares goes back many years through involvement with the Colorado Preschool Program. Julie has spent much of the last 20 years volunteering to advocate for exceptional education for all students, as she sees a great education as the opportunity to overcome barriers, including her own early struggles. Julie also brings the heart of someone who understands how important support is to a family in need and is excited to be able to pay-it-forward by helping others at this point in her career.

Married to Scott for 28 years, they have raised three children first in Monument and then on their ranch in Larkspur, tending to cattle, horses, dogs, and cats now that the kids have left the nest. Julie enjoys camping and fishing, hiking, knitting, traveling, and spending time with family and friends.
